

Preserving the Heritage: Enabling a Modern Lifestyle

Why are so few modern heritage places included on the World Heritage List? What is listed internationally? What isn't? The six housing estates of Berlin Modernism (1913–1934) that were listed on the UNESCO World Heritage List in 2008 play a significant role in 20th century architecture and urbanism. Do such modern heritage places need fresh approaches to conservation and adaptation?

Join us to explore these questions and ponder the successes and failures of apartment design and the European influence on 1920s and 30s apartment design in Sydney.

Speakers: Dr Caroline Butler-Bowdon, Assistant Director, Creative Services Historic Houses Trust, and Sheridan Burke, Partner, Godden Mackay Logan Heritage Consultants.
Introduction: Alec Tzannes, Tzannes Associates & Dean of UNSW, Built Environment
